Fwd: Black Friday

On Thu, Feb 7, 2013 at 8:04 AM, [REDACTED]

Hi

I just wanted to let you know that we tried to purchase Black Friday from LuLu. It could not be printed because the "source file contains errors that are preventing it from being printed." Is this something that should be corrected on your end.

Thanks!

Hello

It has come to our attention that the source files for your project 13414891 "Black Friday" contain errors that are preventing the project from printing. We have set the availability status of the project to "Private Access" until a new revision can be created.

An updated revision using new files will need to be created in order to move forward with this project. If you need more information about creating a successful PDF, please follow this link: http://www.lulu.com/help/how_do_i_make_pdf

PDFs can be created using many different types of software. However, some programs create PDFs that are not compatible with professional printing. Follow this link for a list of recommended PDF creation programs that work well in Lulu's print on demand network: <http://connect.lulu.com/t5/Interior-Formatting/Recommended-PDF-Creation-Programs/ta-p/33683>

When creating a PDF with Adobe Products, use Lulu's Adobe Job Options. Lulu Job Options are settings that create a PDF tailored to work well with our system. The settings files (one specifically for full bleed files and one for those without full bleed) should be attached to this email, or you can download the Job Options files here: http://www.lulu.com/help/how_do_i_make_pdf

After downloading the Job Options file, double click the icon and it will be installed into all Adobe products. If this doesn't load the proper settings you can manually install the settings into your Adobe software as well. Here are some instructions for installation broken down by software.

InDesign:

1. On the InDesign menu go to: Choose File > Adobe PDF Presets > Define.
2. Click Load and select the .joboptions file you want to load.

The .joboptions file is copied to the Settings folder where new PDF presets are stored.

When you are ready to export your file, select Lulu's settings from the 'Adobe PDF Preset' drop-down list to export as a PDF using the settings.

Distiller:

1. On the Distiller menu go to: Settings > Add Adobe PDF Settings.
2. Navigate to the Lulu.joboptions file and click OK.

The new settings should now be available in the 'Default Settings' drop-down list. Make sure to select them before importing the .ps file to export as a PDF.

Photoshop:

1. On the Photoshop menu, select Edit > Adobe PDF Presets.
2. Click 'Load', find the Lulu.joboptions settings on your system and click 'Open'.

When using the 'Save as Photoshop PDF' option, select the Lulu.joboptions settings from the drop-down menu before saving your new PDF.

One way to check your file after it has been created is to look at the properties of the PDF (under the 'file' menu). The PDF version of your file will be 1.3 if the settings were correctly applied.

Thank you for your understanding in this matter and for your cooperation in advance. If you have any questions, please let me know.

Regards,

Jeremy S
